Date of entry 02/14/2020

Charles Insalaco, date of birth (DOB) January [REDACTED] 1956, address [REDACTED] [REDACTED] North Tonawanda, New York, telephone number (716) [REDACTED] [REDACTED] was interviewed at his home in the presence of his wife, Elizabeth Insalaco. After being advised of the identity of the interviewing Agent and the nature of the interview, Insalaco provided the following information:

Insalaco's younger sister is Teresa Lubienecki, the wife of PAUL LUBIENECKI. Years ago, Teresa was dating a man she was very much in love with. At the time she was employed as one of the librarians at Christ the King (CTK) Seminary. The man left her without any notice and she never heard from him again. PAUL LUBIENECKI had recently be involuntarily separated from CTK, where he was a seminarian. LUBIENECKI "swept her off her feet."

LUBIENECKI is exceptionally hard to get along with. He considers himself intellectually superior to everyone. At a family Thanksgiving dinner several years ago, LUBIENECKI engaged in a discussion with Insalaco when LUBIENECKI asked, "can you even read? Have you ever read a book?" At family gatherings, LUBIENECKI would hang around the kids usually because he had a hard time relating to the adults. Insalaco was always bothered by this because LUBIENECKI would get the kids wound up before something would cross the line; he would then tell the parent "you need to discipline your son." One incident, probably about 20 years ago, involved LUBIENECKI playing football in the yard with a bunch of the kids. One of Insalaco's nephews, then about 11 years old, called LUBIENECKI an "asshole". LUBIENECKI choked the boy, leaving marks and requiring adults to intervene to protect the minor.

Insalaco is not sure why LUBIENECKI never liked him or his wife. He suspects it is because they are high school graduates who worked "blue collar" jobs. Insalaco and his wife are both active in their church, ran the Little League, and were active in the community. They get along really well with just about everyone. Insalaco thinks LUBIENECKI probably disliked that he (LUBIENECKI) is not like that. LUBIENECKI is originally from the Philadelphia area and always speaks poorly of Buffalo, calling the people stupid and remarking that there is no culture here.

This report is offered as a supplement to serial 18.

Insalaco offered that PAUL LUBIENECKI wanted everyone, including family, to call him "Doctor" and include Ph.D. in his title.
